Activity/Output Context

What need is this activity/output filling or what problem will be solved for your sector?

Given transliteracy is a current theme it is important that information professionals and educators understand the various forms of information and how to create and share information through multiple mediums. Therefore, transliteracy supports lifelong learning and promotes critical thinking skills. The book will present a wide range of perspectives, projects, and methods on how librarians and educators use and integrate transliteracy to promote the acquisition of lifelong learning skills.
