What were this meeting's main outcomes?

During the online workshop, section members discussed the usefulness of a long-term plan. They agreed that a long-term plan would clarify the overarching purpose and direction of the section. A plan would also make action planning easier and facilitate for new section members to get into the work of the section. It could be in the form of a "rolling plan" that is updated each year during the section's business meeting, making it both long-term and flexible.

Section members provided suggestions for topics, themes, collaborations, and activities for the section's future work in the short- and long-term. Section members pointed out that the list would need to be complemented with topics from a non-academic perspective and from a global south perspective.
